The juvenile must show desire to hunt, be attractive, show style of running, and demonstrate not only intelligence in seeking objectives but also the ability to find game. Juveniles should establish point and must show reasonable obedience to the commands of the handler. Each dog is to be judged on actual performance as indicating its future promise as a gun dog. The adult dog must show strong desire to hunt, have an attractive style in the field, and must demonstrate not only intelligence in quartering and seeking objectives, but also the ability to find game. The dog must hunt for the handler at all times within a suitable range for the hunter and must handle kindly (with a minimum of noise from the handler). The dog must cover ground adequately but never range out of sight for a length of time that would detract from its usefulness as a practical hunting dog.
